TRIVIA // The first person to summit Mt. Everest was the New Zealand climber Sir Edmund Hillary in 1953 (he was aided by Tenzing Norgay). Soon after his death-defying ascent of the highest peak on earth (29,028 ft.), Hillary asked his mom to propose marriage on his behalf to his sweetheart Louise Mary Rose. Hillary admitted he was "too terrified" to pop the question himself. Louise accepted and the couple enjoyed a happy marriage with three children, one of whom, Peter, would go on to climb Everest himself aided by Norgay's son Jamling.
